With Hundreds of New Electronic References and a Greatly Expanded Index!

Greatly revised and updated, the third edition of the award-winning* Gibson's New York Legal Research Guide provides instruction on using the most current print and electronic resources of New York legal research material and is an essential work for any legal researcher in New York State!

Since the last edition was published in 1998, there has been an explosion in the use of electronic resources to perform legal research, which is reflected in the listing of hundreds of additional web sites, CD-ROMs, online databases, and other electronic references. Compiler William H. Manz has also completely re-written the section on legislative histories, greatly expanded the index, and sub-divided the Guide into smaller and better organized sections, making this the most user-friendly of the three editions by far.

This edition contains chapters that describe specialized legal treatises, practice books, and legal forms. It also includes the most important and relevant historical documents, offering information on New York's Constitution, state legislation, the judicial system, administrative codes, court reports, case finders, and treatises up through the beginning of 2004.

In addition, Karen L. Spencer has significantly enlarged the section dealing with the law and Native Americans, as her chapter reviews the latest legislation affecting casino gambling in the State. The book addresses other changes that have influenced the treaty, state, and native law governing relations between Native Americans and the government, as well, and it offers complete coverage of the rich legal history of New York City along with a review of the city's current primary and secondary legal research sources.

Manz's additions and improvements help make Gibson's New York Legal Research Guide, Third Edition the most informative edition written to-date. It is a must-have reference book for any attorney, paralegal, law librarian, law professor, or student performing legal research on New York!
