ELEMENTS OF MERCANTILE LAW

By Theophilus Parsons

A classic work on mercantile law! Includes 20 chapters on a wide range of commercial law, including laws dealing with contracts, agency, statute of fraud, partnership, marine insurance, shipping, bankruptcy and insolvency and life and fire insurance. Guidance is also provided for insurance against disease and dishonesty of servants.

Written by Parsons while Dane professor of law at Harvard Law School, this work filled a void that existed at the time for new law students and remains a classic work from the era.

International Commercial Law Second Edition

By Leone Levi

“It is the object of the present work to bring these fundamental principles of the Law Merchant, and the rules which have been superadded to them in different countries, into contact with each other, so that we may profit by each other's experience, and at the same time, gather materials for the attainment of solid and permanent progress in mercantile legislation.” —Preface
